

Orders Rebound, Earnings Increase During Hooker Furniture's Second Quarter

September 3, 2020

MARTINSVILLE, Va., Sept. 03, 2020 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Hooker Furniture Corporation (NASDAQ-GS: HOFT) today reported consolidated net sales of $130.5 million and net income of $5.8 million, or $0.48 per diluted share, for its fiscal 2021 second quarter ended August 2, 2020.

Net sales decreased by 14.3%, or $21.7 million, compared to the prior year period, while net income increased 38.8%, or $1.6 million. Earnings per diluted share for the quarter increased 37.1% from $0.35 a year ago.

"While the COVID-19 pandemic continued to impact the economy and our operations, our business began to rebound in mid-May and hasn't let up since," said Paul B. Toms Jr. chairman and chief executive officer. "Fiscal July consolidated incoming orders were up 34% compared to a year ago, and backlogs were up 35%. Based on this unusually robust order rate for the summer months, we continue to believe that furniture is an advantaged sector during the pandemic-related economic downturn and 'safer-at-home' practices, due to pent-up demand, a robust housing market and less competition from other discretionary spending such as travel, dining out and sporting events."

"Some HFC divisions were able to capitalize on the surge in demand sooner than others," Toms said. "We were able to better capitalize on the exceptional demand for our products in those divisions that ship stock from our warehouses, including Hooker Branded Caseloads and Upholstery and some Home Meridian (HMI) divisions such as Accentrics Home," he said. The positive impact of higher demand was not felt as immediately in the Domestic Upholstery segment and in the HMI units that service customers via direct container. "After our upholstery factories shut down for four weeks in the spring, production slowly ramped up during the summer to near capacity by the end of Q2," Toms said. "Sales will also lag demand in our container-direct businesses at HMI. Container-direct orders cancelled by large customers in March and April were reinstated in the summer months and will have more of a positive impact on revenues in the second half of our fiscal year as production begins to flow through the pipeline," Toms said.

Consolidated operating income increased by $1.7 million or 30.2% as compared to the prior-year second quarter. The Home Meridian segment reported $1.1 million in operating income compared to a small operating loss in the prior year second quarter. Hooker Branded segment operating margin performance continued at a high level, and the Domestic Upholstery segment reported essentially breakeven operating income for the second quarter despite decreased net sales and inefficiencies from operating at significantly reduced production volumes and lower capacities early in the COVID-19 crisis.

"Reduction of spending in response to the economic shutdown had a significant positive impact on profitability in the quarter, as did lower costs of goods sold, as we have steadily shifted offshore production to non-tariff countries since last year," Toms said. "Year to date, approximately 22% of our caseloads and imported upholstery products have been subject to the 25% tariff on finished goods imported from China, a significant reduction compared to 35% of imported goods subject to tariffs during the same period a year ago," he said.

"Some of our cost-cutting was temporary, such as furloughs and reductions in executives' salaries and directors' fees, which have now been reinstated. Other cuts will stay in place until higher volume warrants more spending. The flexibility of our variable cost model has been proven again during this crisis by our ability to scale our business correctly to demand," Toms said.

For the fiscal 2021 first-half, consolidated net sales were $235.1 million, a decrease of 18.3% or $52.6 million compared to last year, and net loss was $29.0 million, or $2.46 per diluted share, compared to $0.52 earnings per diluted share in last year's first half.

The items driving the net loss for the 2021 first half occurred in the first quarter at the depth of the COVID economic contraction, and nearly 60% of the first half sales decrease occurred in the first quarter as well. Due to the material impact of COVID-19 on the Company's financial performance, market valuations and other factors in the 2021 first quarter, the Company determined that an intangibles asset valuation analysis was appropriate when we reported 2021 first quarter results. As a result, the first-half loss was driven by a $44 million ($33.7 million after tax), non-cash intangible asset impairment charge in Q1 to write down goodwill and certain tradenames in the HMI segment, and goodwill in the Shenandoah division of the Domestic Upholstery segment.

During the fiscal 2021 second quarter, Home Meridian segment net sales decreased by $16.0 million or 18.4%. Domestic Upholstery segment net sales decreased by $5.2 million or 22.8%, and Hooker Branded segment net sales slightly decreased 1.5%, while All Other's net sales increased 1.7%, all as compared to the fiscal 2020 second quarter.

Segment Reporting: Hooker Branded

"Q2 incoming orders increased by nearly 12% year-over-year in the Hooker Branded segment, and the segment finished the quarter with an order backlog over 45% higher than the comparable period a year ago," said Jeremy Hoff, president of Hooker Legacy Brands. "Backlogs are currently higher as production ramps up in Asia to meet strong demand." Net sales for the segment were essentially flat compared to a year ago, dipping slightly by $584,000, or 1.5% in the fiscal 2021 second quarter. Most traditional furniture stores and small or regional chains that closed during the economic shutdown reopened during the fiscal 2021 second quarter, leading to increased demand from the segment's largest distribution channel.

"Because of the disruption of the industry's product introduction cycle due to the cancellation of Spring High Point Market, our team has developed creative ways to keep interest high in new products and stay top-of-mind with customers," Hoff said. "We have done this through digital marketing with upscale photography and 360-degree videos in a virtual showroom on our website showcasing four new collections. We also participated in a 3-day 'Mini-Market' held in High Point showrooms during June. We were gratified to receive solid orders on the collections and expect to begin shipping them to retail stores by October," he said.

The dynamics of the interrupted product introduction cycle, along with pent-up retailer and consumer demand for new furniture styles, has significantly increased the importance of the upcoming mid-September High Point Premarket, Hoff said. "While we typically see around 40 retail customers at Premarket, we expect to see over 100 this time," he said. According to industry reports, approximately 235 exhibitors plan to show at the market preview, compared to the approximately 25 exhibitors typical in past years. "We intend to introduce a major home office program at Premarket in response to the surge in demand for multi-functional furniture that facilitates more home-based work," Hoff said, adding that Hooker Casegoods will also display the four new collections, first introduced virtually, at the upcoming Premarket.

Segment Reporting: Home Meridian

During the quarter, HMI sales were $71.2 million, down 18.4% from prior year. Operating profit improved to $1.1 million from the near break-even Q2 performance a year ago. HMI's gross profit decreased in absolute terms but improved as a percentage of net sales, as some of the issues negatively impacting the segment last year, including excess tariff and higher warehousing and distribution costs were mostly resolved.

"Our profitability for the quarter benefitted from cost cuts and spending reductions that were implemented in Q1 to combat the effects of the pandemic," said Lee Boone, co-president of HMI. "In addition, most of the significant unusual charges we experienced in the prior year did not reoccur."

"The sales decline was partially the result of a near $7 million sales decrease in the Samuel Lawrence Hospitality (SLH) division that services hotels and motels, which have been severely impacted by the pandemic. In addition, the disruptions of Covid-19 on our suppliers, many of which struggled to rebuild production capacity to pre-COVID levels, impacted product availability," he said. "Fortunately, HMI was in a strong inventory position prior to the pandemic, which enabled us to ship significant quantities from our warehouse inventory," Boone added, "These warehouse inventories were significantly reduced in Q2, which will impact our near-term warehouse shipments until we can replenish inventories for the fall selling season, which we expect to do over the next sixty days."

"Incoming orders were extremely strong in Q2, exceeding prior year orders by 37%. Brisk demand was driven by strong e-commerce business, as well as surprisingly strong demand from our brick and mortar retailers as they reopened their stores following 4-6 weeks of pandemic shut-downs," Boone said. E-commerce and Club sales, which were less impacted by retail shutdowns during the COVID-19 pandemic, continued the strong performance, with sales increasing by about 20% in the Accentrics Home and HMidea divisions.

"Order backlog continued to build in the quarter, the result of continuing strong incoming demand from our customers, many of whom are placing orders for product well into the future," Boone said. "We finished the quarter with backlogs up 32% over prior year. Looking forward, our order backlog continues to build, and we are working diligently to maximize production and shipments to satisfy remarkable current demand."

Several HMI divisions will participate in the upcoming September High Point Premarket. "While Premarket is normally a small-scale dress rehearsal a month in advance of the international High Point Market, we expect our retail attendance to be up four to five-fold," Boone said. "We are booking advance appointments, and initial indications are for an exceptionally well-attended event. Our sales teams, samples and showrooms are ready."

Segment Reporting: Domestic Upholstery

Net sales decreased by $5.2 million or 22.8% in the fiscal 2021 second quarter as compared to the same prior-year period. At the end of second quarter, Domestic Upholstery's backlog was about 45% higher than the prior year second quarter, due to the ramp up from reduced operating schedules in the second quarter and the receipt of programmed orders that are expected to ship later in the Fall. Incoming orders decreased by 5.9% as compared to the comparable prior year period.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic as well as reduced orders, Bradington-Young's and Shenandoah's manufacturing plants were temporarily closed in April, and Sam Moore operated at reduced capacity. Upholstery production facilities gradually resumed operations during the second quarter and as of early September, all three divisions were operating near capacity as they continue to ramp up from reduced operating schedules. Segment management implemented cost reduction measures earlier in the year to mitigate expected operating inefficiencies and operating results were within $10,000 of break-even for the quarter.

Segment Reporting: All Other

All Other net sales stayed essentially flat versus the prior year period and it reported an operating income of $350,000 due to continued solid performance at H Contract. However, H Contract incoming orders decreased 9% in the second quarter from the prior year period, as senior-living facilities, the focus of this division's business, felt the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Cash, Debt and Inventory

The net loss recorded for the six-month period, was driven by impairment charges, which had no impact on cash flow for the year. During the six-month period, the Company generated $53.2 million in cash from operating activities, distributed $3.8 million in cash dividends to shareholders, and paid $3.2 million in principal and interest on its term loans. Cash and cash equivalents stood at $82.2 million at fiscal 2021 second quarter-end, an increase of $46.2 million compared to the balance at the end of fiscal 2020. Additionally, the Company had access to $24.9 million in cash surrender value of Company-owned life insurance policies. Along with an aggregate $25.7 million available under its existing revolver to fund working capital, the Company is confident that its strong financial condition can weather the expected short-term impacts of COVID-19; however, an extended impact may continue to materially and adversely affect its sales, earnings and liquidity. The Company had $27.2 million in acquisition-related debt as of the end of the fiscal 2021 second quarter and its consolidated inventories stood at $67.7 million, compared to $92.8 million at the end of fiscal 2020 on February 2, 2020.

"In order to meet the brisk demand for our products following a time of production shutdowns by our vendors and our own upholstery facilities, we have been revisiting our sales forecasts weekly and adjusting production orders based on incoming demand," said Toms. "We have experienced some stock-outs on bestsellers but expect to remedy that in the next sixty days as our vendors ramp up their production. In transit inventories are already growing. Both HMI and Hooker are in a good position to be prioritized by major vendors, in that we are typically the largest customers to all our major vendors," he concluded.

Outlook

"Given the robust housing market, strong demand since mid-May, and order backlogs up 35% at the end of the second quarter, we enter the fall with momentum and optimism," said Toms. "We used the shutdown period to improve efficiencies and effectiveness in our business, from cost-cutting to long-range strategic planning to focusing our efforts and resources on the items driving our business. We believe all of these initiatives will yield long-term positive results.”

“We are concerned about the human and economic toll of COVID, both currently, and the future possibility of additional surges of the virus that may delay re-openings and have adverse effects in certain regions or states. However, we have a very strong team, and are in excellent financial condition. We weathered the disruption of tariffs last year and the pandemic this year. We are well-prepared to face an uncertain future, and well-positioned to benefit from furniture’s current emergence as an advantaged category,” Toms concluded.

Dividends

On September 2, 2020, the Company’s board of directors declared a quarterly cash dividend of $0.16 per share, payable on September 30, 2020, to shareholders of record at September 18, 2020.
